

GNA WINS RAVE REVIEWS FOR U.S ELECTION COVERAGE

THE STATE OF ## THE STATES

GNA - the Glanmire News Area - has won rave reviews for its US Presidential Election coverage, but it lost the popular vote to CNN, who had a much larger audience, which included GNA staff.

True to their roots, GNA started live-tweeting the an historic event at 10pm GMT (Glanmire Meanwhile Time) on the 3rd of November and within an hour we had already garnered the attention and high praise of American woman Elizabeth Warren.

We would like to thank Ms Warren for her continued support.

We have been told the news desk at GNA was sticky during the night as copious amounts of coffee and lucozade were spilled or spat out as surprising results came in from the US and also once when someone thought they saw a ghost near a rad.

The first GNA official twitter poll determined that 57% of the people of Glanmire believe that Joe Biden is more likely than Donald J. Trump to be able to name all 50 states (of America).

Some nasty rumours were spread, believed to be from Mayfield, that the GNA team fell asleep during their own live-tweeting but we take that as slander and you'll be hearing from our lawyers, Michael! Ya prick.

As days rolled into months, the GNA live coverage never ceased, except the times it stopped; sometimes for breaks, sometimes for other.

We are proud to say that, thanks to a fierce crack team of experts, GNA came in the top 10 of local Irish news media outlets to first declare Joe Biden the winner of America's Next Top President's Got Talent Idol 2020.

We look forward to a seamless transition of power between the Trump and Biden administrations, without any excess deaths or general shite repercussions for the world.

We at GNA would also like to extend a personal invitation to Joe Biden (and his wife) to Glanmire should they wish to take part in the May-day procession through Glanmire Village, sometime in 2021. Probably May, but it can be moved to fit Joe's schedule, no problem.

Keeping Secrets in Glanmire Since 19??

Struck Off! with Dr. Niamh Nic Gearailt

(VAGINAL CANDIDIASIS - THRUSH)

Vaginal Candidiasis, a.k.a vaginal yeast infection or thrush, is a fungal infection that causes irritation, discharge and intense itchiness of the vagina and the vulva — the tissues at the vaginal opening.

Thrush affects up to 3 out of 4 women at some point in their lifetimes, but sometimes that 4th woman is also affected.

Many women experience at least two episodes, or an entire series if they are bingeing. A vaginal yeast infection isn't considered a sexually transmitted infection, but it does carry with it similar symptoms, smells and of course the social stigma. There's an increased risk of thrush at the time of first regular sexual activity. There's also some evidence that infections may be linked to mouth to genital contact (oral-genital sex/blowies/bj's/suck-jobs).

Yeast infection symptoms can range from mild to moderate, and include:

- Itching and irritation in the vagina and vulva.
- Vaginal pain and soreness
- A burning sensation, especially during intercourse or while urinating, this particularly puts a damper on those interested in watersports!
- Thick, white, odor-free vaginal discharge of a cottage cheese appearance (especially "Organic Valley" & "Marks & Spencer" brands of cottage cheese).

To reduce your risk of vaginal yeast infections, wear underwear that has a cotton crotch and doesn't fit too tightly. Or alternatively, avoid sex altogether, but let's be honest, that's not so much fun.

Avoiding sex is almost always the solution/prevention for most ailments and is often recommended by your doctor, but it's really just something they have to advise on, it's not meant to be taken seriously. I myself, have suggested to patients that they may consider abstaining from intercourse for a few weeks, and if I could include pictures in my column, you would see that I needn't have bothered at all.

When dealing with thrush, it might also help to avoid douching, which removes some of the normal bacteria in the vagina that protects you from infection. Think of the Yakult ad about the good bacteria, it's just like that.

Perhaps also avoid scented feminine products, including bubble bath, pads and tampons. Stay away entirely from "Lush" stores and products! I generally do anyway, but here's another great reason to do so.

With these measures you can enjoy a thrush-free lifestyle. Without them, you will likely be destined to incredibly frustrating and annoying itchiness that will inevitably result in that intensely satisfying yet debasing dry rubbing session.

It's not something I would recommend, but then again life is quiet during the lockdown.

CON MAN ROAMING GLANMIRE

Residents of Glanmire beware! A confidence trickster is active in the area and will prey on vulnerable people who are relatively flush with cash. The disgusting con man struck as recently as the 13th of November, in Glanmire Village (not far from the GNA office). The victim was approached by the huckster and was given a sob story about how the man didn't have enough money for the bus back to Dublin, or the bus back into town and that he urgently needed 10 euros.

The victim was not yet skeptical as he is a kind hearted individual who by nature is always ready to lend a hand, particularly to those in distress or from Dublin.

With promises of repayment through paypal or through the post, the conman took my e-mail and home address along with the tenner.

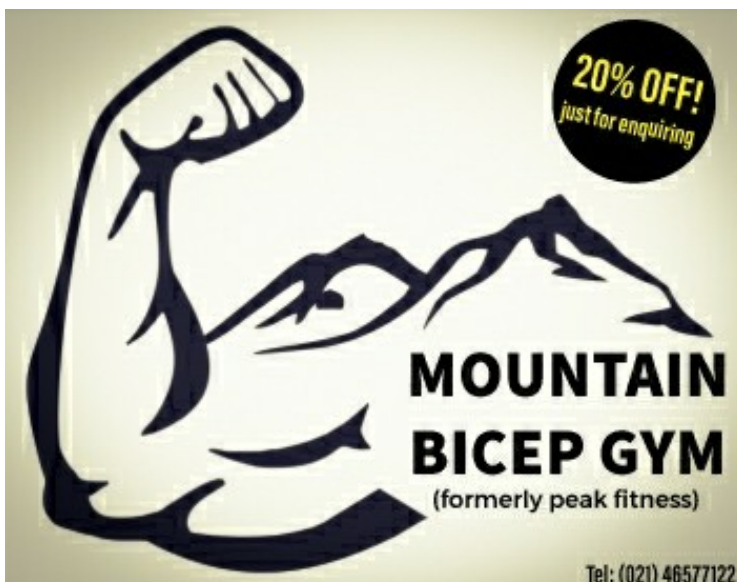

It was only after seeing the man break into a run upon parting ways did the victim think that maybe something was amiss.

After a brief period of reflection and a conversation with a colleague, was it determined that the victim had indeed, been had!

But not wanting to let the hustler get away with it, I have composed an illustration of what the crook looked like (with my tenner in hand).

The fraudster in question

UNUSUAL NUMBER OF TEENS COPPING OFF

There has been an unusual number of teenagers “copping off with each other” in the woods between Hazelwood and the bog bit with the single basketball court recently, according to local man Ger Hoolihan (58).

Ger, who has asked us not to reveal his phone number, told Glanmire News Area that he noticed the shift in shifting in the woods since teenagers were allowed out in one of the recent phases of ending lockdown.

“I’ve been taking my daily walks in the woods, staggering my start times in order to gather more comprehensive evidence and data about what’s been going on.”

Basketball Court with relevant woods behind

According to Ger, pre-lockdown levels of teenagers copping off with one another in the woods were “about 12 - 17 a week, although usually an even number” but in recent weeks things have noticeably changed.

“There’s been a clear drop off. I don’t know what’s going on. Lockdowns shouldn’t really be affecting the figures like this, they tend to cause shifts in the curves rather than drop-offs. But the teenagers just haven’t been there. And I’ve checked. Everyday. Sometimes you might see a couple, but even then half the time it’s the uglier ones. If they’re going somewhere else, I’d just like to know.”

Ger has asked for anyone with information on the whereabouts of the teenagers and their activities to please contact him. He will make himself available to be found “in the old usual spot” daily.

Ger (58), forlorn

Glanmire Chicken Parade

Proudly Sponsored by Dickens Chickens

It's that time of year again folks! The Glanmire Chicken Parade 2020™ will be taking place this month and we at the GNA have put together for you, the most comprehensive guide to the entire festival.

With this handy print-out, staple-together, then pull-out supplement, you will know your cocks from your chicks, your scratch from your feed and who's who in the world of parishional cock-fighting!

This year plans to be the biggest chicken parade in recent memory. Taking place over three days (Nov 27th-29th), with stalls, food trucks, games, live music, competitions, kids zone, cosplay, there's something for everybody! And of course it will all culminate on the Sunday with the Glanmire Chicken Parade™ itself. Last year's parade from Sallybrook to Glanmire Village, set the benchmark for completion rate. This year, organisers hope to break the 50% mark for chickens that complete the parade.

The honour of opening the festivities this year goes to RTE broadcaster and commentator, George Hamilton. Glanmire residents will be quick to forget about last year's host, George Hook, who faced some consternation from locals after he declined the complimentary 2-night stay at the Vienna Woods Hotel. Mr. Hamilton however, was more than happy to accept the offer. He and wife, Linda, will be provided with a garden view suite (room 201) and breakfast is of course included. Only the best for one of the Chicken Parade's™ star attractions.

George Hamilton (70)

We would like to remind all attendees and onlookers to the Chicken Parade™, that it just that, it is not a race. Some of the egging on and aggressive chanting heard from the sidelines in previous years will not be tolerated. The Chicken Parade™ is and has always been for families and chickens. For those seeking a fierce competitive sporting atmosphere, we suggest you check out the cockfighting rings that have been erected amidst the wooded areas behind O'Callahan Park. Those with outside snacks and drinks will not be admitted.

The Glanmire Chicken Parade - Through the Years!

The Glanmire Chicken Parade has been going strong for 57 years now. It has, at times, gone in and out of fashion, and for several years after the turn of the century, the festival suffered mightily at the hands of animal rights activists. But one thing is for sure, it's not going away!

The festival started off with a bang, back in 1963. It was front page news at the time for a village to hold such an event so specialised in poultry. The 63' event was smaller in size, but chicken experts and historians maintain that it was the purists ideal of what a chicken parade should be. Some complain that the modern chicken parades have become too commercial or too international. They yearn for the old days and for the magic of the Glanmire Chicken Parade.

97' Champion Benoit, with trainer Luc

1997 saw the festival grow, with the first foreign winner of the famed "Cock of the Walk". Benoit, a Brahma Rooster from Rennes, took home the prize after achieving a perfect score from the judges. Tragically, we wouldn't see Benoit again the following year to retain his crown as the rooster perished in transport during the return journey to France. Benoit's coach Luc however, would be back, winning the award in 00' and 02', becoming the first coach to win the prestigious award three times with three different roosters.

Glanmire Chicken Parade

Proudly Sponsored by Dickens Chickens

2019 was typical of the modern Chicken Parade. Very much family oriented. A true and joyous celebration of chickens. Last year's parade will be best remembered for its inclement weather and the performance "Spatchcock", who achieved the perhaps unenviable record for the slowest completion time. Spatchcock (pictured right) shot straight to the hearts of the neutral with his assured step-by-step approach, stopping many many times and on a lot of occasions, scuttling off in the wrong direction completely. Last year also saw the brutal assassination of a rooster mid-parade, when a cinder block was thrown by a local teenage ruffian, into a group of roosters, killing one.

Spatchcock with owner

2020 promises to be one of the greatest Glanmire Chicken Parades to date, it will certainly become the most recent. One of the most anticipated aspects of the festival (apart from the parade itself), will be the long-awaited re-match of Donna and Raquel in the Cockfighting. Already billed as Donna V Raquel 2, this is certainly the pair of cocks on everyone's lips.

Name: Donna
Age: 3
Top Speed: 13kmh
Power: 6

The original match-up back in 2019 ended in humiliating defeat for Raquel upon immediately fleeing the fighting ring. A common trait amongst younger roosters. However, this year Raquel has shown real maturity in recent bouts. The weigh-in last month almost saw the roosters come pecks thanks to some provocative posturing from Donna, but this was later played down as just "Rooster Banter". The two will come beak-to-beak in the 1st round of the cockfighting tournament, one of the real thrills of the unseeded open draw.

Name: Raquel
Age: 2
Top Speed: 8kmh
Power: 6

Sexy Pandemic?

How're Things Mary?

Things had been stale in the bedroom for a while and it was looking like we might never get our spark back, but then one night during Lockdown 1 my husband just came out with; "Who's a sexy vaccine?" and I don't know what came over me at first but when I told him I was, he did, and ever since we've been roleplaying that he's a dirty coronavirus and I'm a naughty vaccine and everything's been great, but now he says he doesn't want the actual vaccine at all!

What should I do? Janet, 46

Dear Janet, Just tell him to shut up and take it.

Kisses, Mary xxx

Zoom Affair

How're Things Mary?

I'm having an affair over Zoom with one of my teachers. My school keeps having to close cos of the pandemic so most of my classes are online. One day during English class I could see Mr (name redacted) had his laundry drying in the background so I said; "Nice boxers x" in the private chat box and he replied; "Eh thanks?", so I told him he was looking really sexy. Then he told me "That's inappropriate", but he hasn't taught us that word yet. Did I mention it's an English as a foreign language class?

Anyway I think it means he wants to have sex with me.

Do you have any tips for virtual sex? Pablo, 29

Dear Pablo, What you need to do is light some candles, get a questionable amount of baby oil and just go to town. Virtually.

Kisses, Mary xxx

Text Messages

A man has stolen my wife. I had her cleaning the bathroom as punishment for overcooking my dinner and next thing I heard was the front door slamming and someone, presumably a neighbour, shouting "Fuck you Michael you cunt", which leads me to believe a man, also named Michael, must've been spotted wifnapping my wife.

Who do I need to call to investigate? Michael, 54

Dear Michael, You fucking idiot. She's better off. But what was the dinner? M xxx

BOOK OF THE MONTH

"Triggered" by Donald Trump Jr. is a fascinating account of how the lefty snowflakes have sold out America to their radical left-wing ideologues and identity politics. It's a series of hot-takes by the son of President Donald Trump. It is a clear and concise read, that has fully convinced this reviewer of its central core message. Only through love, God, and a toughened skin can we persevere through this melting pot of failure into a cleaner, brighter, whiter future.
